Changing Seasons Cards

Host guide | A conversation, not a test

Set out a few cards

Choose three to five questions. Cut along the borders if useful, or keep each sheet whole. Everyone may answer, listen, or pass.

Begin gently

Open with choosing a color that suggests a season. Someone can describe a place they know, a picture, or a completely imagined landscape. Accept differences in weather and timing. The purpose is not to agree on what a season should look like, but to hear the details each person notices.

Make room for every voice

Read one question, then pause. Accept short replies. Ask before inviting more detail. Let each person choose whether to share a memory or invent an answer.

Try this extension

Create four small scenes in words, one for each season as participants understand it. Use a view, an object, and a preferred activity for each. A pair can compare two very different climates without ranking them. Keep the discussion about observation and choice rather than requiring seasonal memories or holiday plans.
