Host guide | A conversation, not a test

Set out a few cards

Choose three to five questions. Cut along the borders if useful, or keep each sheet whole. Everyone may answer, listen, or pass.

Begin gently

Start by choosing a picture for an imaginary postcard. Then move to the question about a friendly opening line. Make clear that participants should not share addresses, private messages, or another person’s story unless they freely want to and it is appropriate for the group.

Make room for every voice

Read one question, then pause. Accept short replies. Ask before inviting more detail. Let each person choose whether to share a memory or invent an answer.

Try this extension

Compose a fictional postcard in three short lines: a place, one detail noticed there, and a friendly closing. A pair can design two different cards for the same invented town. Nobody needs to write by hand; spoken composition works equally well and avoids turning handwriting into a performance.
